

The Danube Delta's residents are primarily known for their traditions, religious beliefs, sense of community, and loyalty to their hometown. They sing their traditional songs and wear special costumes for ceremonies, which is a big part of their culture. Furthermore, food has a significant influence on their way of life and the kitchen plays a major role in their culture. This is particularly true given that fishing is one of the most common activities in the Danube Delta. Another essential value of the Delta community is solidarity. In trying times, people stick together and help one another. Families are especially cohesive, and multiple generations frequently reside in one home. The Delta's citizens are strengthened by their unity and are better able to handle the hardships of their modest way of life. Additionally, the Romanian orthodox church and religion are very powerful in the Delta; sermons are taken seriously and the church is represented by numerous monasteries.
